

Price of main electrical distribution box for a building

Article Overview

Main electrical boxes typically cost $25–$200, while distribution boxes range from $100 to over $2,000 depending on size, material, and features.

Main Electrical Box Pricing

For standard residential electrical boxes, prices vary based on size, material, and amperage:

- Plastic single-gang boxes: $6–$25 per unit
- Metal or weatherproof boxes: $25–$200 per unit
- Total installed cost (including labor and minor wiring updates): $75–$300 for basic replacements, with higher costs in regions with elevated labor rates or for outdoor/weatherproof models. Factors influencing cost include the number of devices, depth of the box, and whether wiring upgrades or permits are required.

Distribution Box Pricing

Distribution boxes, which serve as central hubs for power distribution, have a wider price range due to their complexity and capacity:

- Small residential units: $100–$500
- Commercial-grade or industrial units: $500–$2,000+
