

Ranking of Fiber Optic Communication Power Supply Manufacturers

Article Overview

Leading fiber optic communication manufacturers include Corning, Prysmian Group, Sumitomo Electric Industries, Sterlite Technologies, AFL Global, and Lumentum, recognized for their high-quality optical components and power solutions.

Top Manufacturers Overview

- Corning Incorporated – A pioneer in low-loss optical fiber, Corning holds approximately 40% of the global market share. The company is renowned for its innovations in glass science, optical fiber, and high-capacity transmission solutions for telecom networks and hyperscale data centers, often integrating power supply solutions for optical systems .
- Prysmian Group – Headquartered in Milan, Italy, Prysmian specializes in telecommunications and energy systems, including optical fiber cables, connectivity components, and medium/high-voltage cable systems. Their products support submarine and terrestrial networks, often incorporating power management for fiber optic installations .
- Sumitomo Electric Industries – Based in Osaka, Japan, Sumitomo is a leader in ultra-low-loss fiber manufacturing and multi-core fiber technology. Their solutions are widely used in long-haul networks and industrial applications, with integrated power supply systems for high-capacity optical networks .
